DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of species b) figures 5-6, claims 1-25 in the reply filed on September 19, 2005 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Specification

2. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the adhesive being selected from the group set forth in claim 13.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- The claim is incomplete because it is not clear what "therapeutic" subject is applicant referring to (material, elements, instruments, fluids... etc.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3763

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1-3, 5, 7-11, 14-17, 19, and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Palasis et al (US 6,319,230).

Palasis discloses an injection catheter (figs. 7A-7C) having an injection tube 24 with a piercing tip, a pressure apron(suction head) 70, and a second injection tube 26.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 4, 6, 12, 13, 18, 20, 24, and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Palasis et al in view of Wilk et al (US 5,758,663).

Palasis discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the apron including an adhesive on its surface and the kind of adhesive material, and it is moot to the apron's material.

Wilk teaches that it is known to include a biocompatible adhesive on a cardiovascular device such as on a flange of a vascular bypass member in order to adhere a device to a patient's tissue. Given the teachings, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Palasis by adding Wilk's adhesive on Palasis suction head, since Wilk suggests that it would adhere to elements together for a medical procedure, and it would improve the seal with the device and the tissue. Furthermore, the instant disclosure describes the material of the apron and the adhesive as merely preferable, and does not describe it as contributing any unexpected results to the catheter. As such, the materials are deemed matters of design choice (lacking in any criticality), well within the skill of the ordinary artisan, obtained through routine experimentation in determining optimum results. See also Sinclair & Carroll Co. v. Interchemical Corp., 325, U.S. 327, 65 USPQ 297 (1945).

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO-892 Form.
